The challenge

Making real devices remotely accessible to your developers and testers

Developers and testers need all kinds of devices to develop apps, debug their code, and ensure the software works as intended. But these team members don't always have access to enough devices, especially when they work remotely. You could pay for a rental device farm or a mobile app testing platform, but if you already own the devices you need, you can build your own private mobile device farm and potentially save thousands.

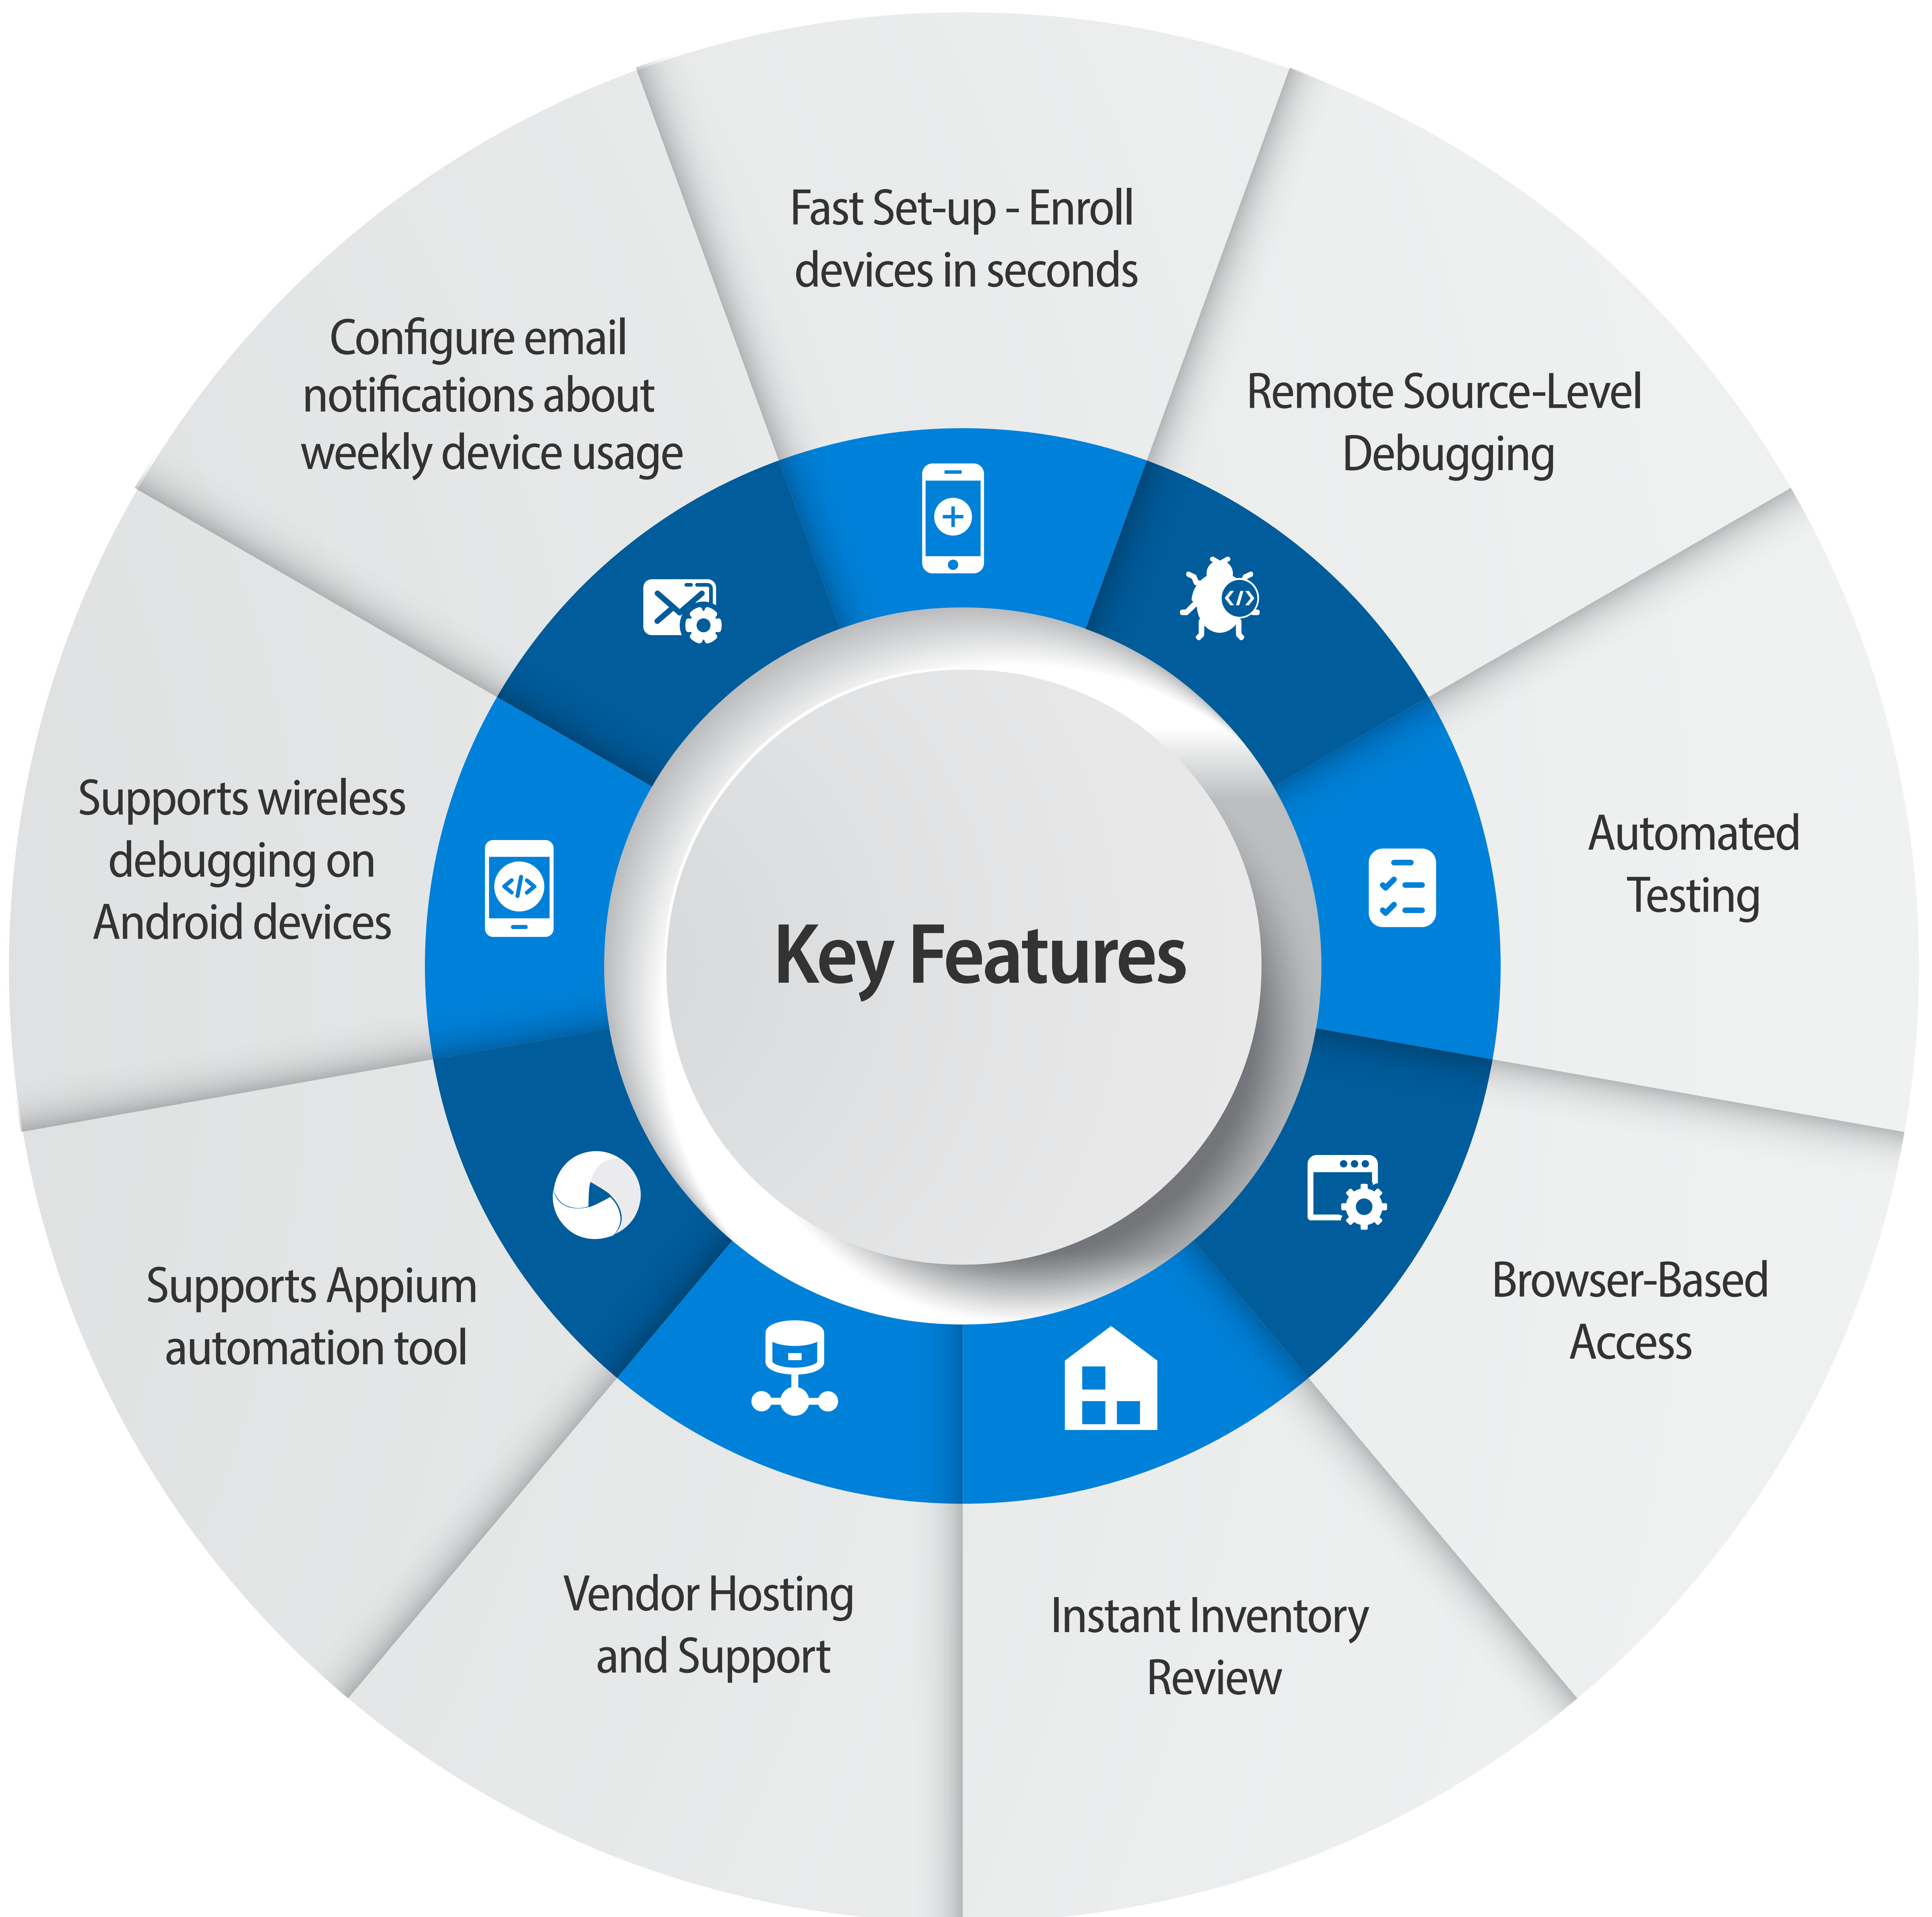

The Solution

AstroFarm by 42Gears

AstroFarm by 42Gears lets you easily bring all of your company devices to a private device farm and make them available to developers and testers remotely. Anyone can add their devices to the farm, ensuring that other team members have access to those devices when they need them. The user can claim a device by logging into the AstroFarm console, use it for as long as they need, and then release it for someone else to use. Skip rental fees and tap into a robust framework from 42Gears, one of the world's most-trusted device management software providers.
